- 6.17 Any direct sponsorship of Third Party Events to an Employee or associated healthcare professional ("HCP") is prohibited outright. A Supplier may not pay registration fees, travel and/or hospitality expenses directly to individual HCP for their participation, as a delegate or speaker, in educational Third Party Events. Any such sponsorship, including all payments and travel fees, by a Supplier will be effected by way of an educational grant directed to a legal entity, which legal entity may be a healthcare organisation ("HCO").

Any invitation by a Supplier or other Third Party to sponsor or provide an educational grant relating to the attendance of a Third-Party Event by an Employee or an associated HCP must be addressed to the relevant company (being the employer of the Employee/s and/or HCP) within the Mediclinic Group and never to an individual director, officer or Employee. Such invitation may specify the type of recipient, but may in no way specify the individual recipient. The relevant hospital manager, regional manager or department head will, in consultation with the relevant Head of Procurement, consider the invitation and forward a detailed motivation for approval in terms of the approval process in paragraphs 6.23 to 6.24, and subject to any further guidelines issued by the Group Executive Committee or the Operating Division.

Any such sponsorship or educational grant shall be governed by a written agreement between the relevant entity within the Mediclinic Group and the sponsoring Third Party, in which agreement the Third Party shall warrant that it complies with the relevant Industry Code. All costs relating to such Event shall be paid by the Mediclinic entity receiving the sponsorship or grant, and not directly by the Supplier.

Invitations to attend Supplier-organised Events (such as procedure or product training) shall also be addressed to the relevant company within the Mediclinic Group and not to an individual director, officer or employee; and subject to the approval in terms of the approval process in paragraphs 6.23 to 6.24. For such Events, no written agreement is required with the Supplier and the costs relating to such Event, as per the Supplier's Invitation, shall be paid directly by the Supplier.

Employees attending an Event will be required to provide written feedback to the relevant hospital manager, regional manager or department head after attendance of the Event.

All Suppliers should be informed of the Company's policy regarding invitations to Events.

In addition, any Gift, Hospitality and/or Entertainment that exceeds the Permitted Value and any cash / cash equivalent Gifts, irrespective of the value thereof (other than the exceptions listed in paragraph 6.14), is subject to approval in terms of the approval process in paragraphs 6.23 to 6.24.
